

DEMONSTRATION NOTICE

U.S. Embassy
La Paz, Bolivia

April 5, 2011
3:49 PM

The U.S. Embassy in La Paz has received information about the following demonstration scheduled for the morning of April 6, 2011 in the city of La Paz:

Protesters are expected to demonstrate tomorrow against the 10% salary increase recently approved by the Government of Bolivia. The protesters accuse the government of acting unilaterally without input from the labor unions and contend that a 10% increase is inadequate. Approximately 10,000 miners and 1,500 teachers will be marching from outside El Alto to downtown La Paz near Plaza Murillo. Protestors will begin their march at 0830 and are expected to block the main highway to El Alto. The protests may impact major roads in all areas of La Paz. The U.S. Embassy advises you to check with authorities on road blocks and protests before traveling.

While we anticipate that these demonstrations to be peaceful, there is always the possibility that the situation could change. The U.S. Embassy reminds you that demonstrations and road blockades are not unusual in Bolivia, and even though they might be intended to be peaceful they can turn confrontational between security forces, demonstrators, and bystanders, and escalate into violence. You should avoid them if at all possible. If you find yourself in the vicinity of a large gathering, you should leave the area immediately for your own safety. Be alert and aware of your surroundings and pay attention to what the local news media has to say. Please note that the police have limited capabilities outside major cities and communication is poor.

You can stay in touch and get Embassy updates by checking the Embassy website, found here. You can also get global updates at the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Consular Affairs website where you can find the current Worldwide Caution, Travel Warnings, Travel Alerts, and Country Specific Information.
